At the start of a new year .....

The start of the Christian year is Advent: a solemn season of preparation for Christmas. One of the set Bible readings in Advent was from the Old Testament: the Second Book of Kings, Chapter 22, verses 1 to 28. This is from ancient Israel, when the kings of Israel and Judah sought advice as to whether to go to war with the King of Aram. Many prophets were summoned and they all sang the kings' praises and assured them of victory. One other prophet was sent for – the prophet Micaiah who had a reputation for speaking without fear or favour. Micaiah saw that battle would leave Israel 'scattered on the mountains, like sheep that have no shepherd'. The King of Israel condemned Micaiah to prison on reduced rations. Battle was joined, and the King of Israel died, thus handing victory to Aram.

Why are we given this reading in Advent? Because we know how highly the truth is valued – and yet how easily and readily the truth is perverted or defied.

Who will be a seeker after truth? Who is willing to pay the personal price?

See how readily a veil is drawn over the truth in public discourse – in politics. See how leaders of the nations speak lies and propaganda. See how the truth is bought and sold.

Hear the clamour of conflicting voices as the two kings sit on their thrones and ponder strategy. Where is truth to be found? If a single voice is to be more authoritative than many voices, which voice is the voice of truth?

See how, despite our longing for truth and righteousness, those who speak out are condemned. The whistle-blower now has some statutory rights, but the law does not govern every subtlety of human interaction.

There is a lone voice of judgement, and that voice is our Lord, Jesus Christ, before whom we will all stand at the day of judgement. Turn to Christ, repent of your sins, be Baptised and know salvation.

Thomas Hardy – looking back 90 years

Poet and novelist Thomas Hardy died 90 years ago this month, on 11th January 1928. He is probably best known for the Wessex novels, named after one of the kingdoms of Anglo-Saxon Britain and set largely in the Dorset area, where he was born and where he died. But his real talent was as a poet.

Hardy's long career – he was born in 1840 – spanned the Victorian and modern eras. He is generally regarded as pessimistic and fatalistic, although in his youth he had wanted to be a parson, and his biblical knowledge, expressed in both his poetry and his novels, was exceptional. Although generally regarded as an agnostic, he never stopped attending Anglican church and taking Holy Communion.

His novels, though very readable, were marred by an excessive use of coincidence, but some of his poetry was brilliant, employing the music of language to the full, and often revealed an underlying hope – or at least the desire for it. In The Darkling Thrush he writes of "some blessed Hope, whereof he knew / And I was unaware", and in The Oxen he concludes: "I should go with him in the gloom, / Hoping it might be so."

When Hardy died, his ashes were deposited in the Poets' Corner of Westminster Abbey. His heart was interred in the graveyard at Stinsford Church where his parents, grandparents, and his first wife were buried.

The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity

This year the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity runs from 18th to 25th January. The theme of the week this year comes from the churches of the Caribbean, and addresses some of the problems which affect the people there, but also worldwide.

Thus, as abuses of human rights are found across the region, the week will challenge us to consider our manner of welcoming the stranger into our midst. Human trafficking and modern-day slavery continue to be huge issues. Addiction to pornography and drugs continue to be serious challenges to all societies. The debt crisis has a negative impact upon the nations and upon individuals – the economies of the nations and people have become precarious. Family life continues to be challenged by the economic restrictions which lead to migration, domestic abuse and violence.

What are Christians to do, in the face of such vast problems? The Caribbean Churches work together to heal the wounds in people's lives, but also know that reconciliation demands repentance, reparation and the healing of memories. The whole Church is called to be both a sign and an active agent of this reconciliation

THANK YOU

Many, many thanks to everyone who so kindly donated to the Candle Fund, stripped their gardens of evergreen or assisted me in the preparation of the Church for Advent and Christmas.

It is only your generosity, kindness and valuable help that enables us to make our already beautiful Church "special" during Advent and Christmas. Thank you so much.

What do you think of when you hear Church bells ringing?

Weddings? Special National Events, such as Remembrance Sunday? Or do you think of the picture of the village green with the sound of leather on willow and the local village church in the background?

You may have heard in the media that to remember the 1400 Church Bellringers who gave their lives in the Great War, the Central Council of Church Bellringers has set us the challenge to train 1400 new ringers so that on Sunday November 11th 2018 many more church towers will be ready to ring to mark 100 years since the Armistice.

At St Mary's, Alderley we have a long history of bellringing for Sunday Services, weddings and other 'special occasions' and we are keen to recruit new members to join us.

If you would like to learn a new skill, meet new friends and have fun we would love you to join us for our open weekend or practice night every Tuesday to have a go at ringing the bells.

THE OPEN BELL RINGING WEEKEND AT ST.MARY'S CHURCH IS SATURDAY & SUNDAY 17th & 18th MARCH.

Those beloved little red bricks

Sixty years ago this month a Dutch company copyrighted a new toy. They called it 'Lego', Latin for 'gather, pick or choose'. They can't have foreseen the enormous, world-wide enthusiasm with which these little red clip-together building blocks would be greeted by children from about two years old to early teens. Toddlers would clip them together and imagine they were houses or lorries. Older children would build progressively more sophisticated structures, many with cogs, wheels and battery powered motors.

Parents and grand-parents loved them, because they were a universally welcome gift, and even a youngster who already had some Lego was always glad to get some more. Mind you, little red bricks in odd places rapidly became a feature of many homes – under chairs and settees, in beds, and even turning up in the cat's tray or the bath.

Lego has been, for sixty years, a feature of any home with children. It was also, I admit, the inspiration for a little children's song which I wrote nearly 50 years ago, which was included in the BBC school song book. It was called 'The Building Song' and included the immortal lines Everybody's building, everybody's building, Everybody's building in a different way.

Not, I agree, exactly Isaac Watts, but the tune, by Roger Hurrell, was catchy and it became very popular at school assemblies. Yes, we are all building – lives, character, personalities, friendships. After all, 'made in God's image', what could we be but creator/builders? We gather, pick and choose – and like Lego, make something of all the bits!
